

The Adventures of Sam Evans

by Emma J.

Dear Kelly,

Today I had to be the new kid and some people thought I was a boy. It was awful and some one called me Sam Egghead. You're probably having a good life, well if you do please write back in your next letter.

Y.B.F.,

Sammyantha

"SAM!" yelled Carla, "It's time for dinner."

Sam walked to the table and sat down. The table had lots of food on it and before anyone could stop him Kail took a bite out of the ice cream. Kail was not supposed to eat the ice cream.

Well, it was bed time and 6th grader Sam went to bed, hoping the next day of school would be better than the first.

Kelly woke up at 5:00 A.M. and started to write to Sam,

Dear Sam,

I got your letter and I forgot to mention that we can see each other this afternoon at the waterpark but we have to walk there, so hopefully I can see you there, Oh yeah I am having a good life, and thanks for asking.

Oh does Y.B.F. mean your best friend?

Well bye for now,

Kelly O'Mally

Sam went to school and during one of her classes someone broke her pencil and to her that was no joke.

After school Sam and her family went to a baseball game. Her older brother, Bandit was playing in it and his team won.

After the game Sam and Kelly went to the water park, but on the way there they fell in a puddle. It was not any regular puddle, it was a magic puddle and instead of them getting younger or older they went into a magical world and woke up in a cloud and they couldn't get down. Then they got an idea and jumped down, but when they jumped down they were fine and walked around into the nearest village and stayed the night. When they woke up they finally realized that they were wearing different clothes. They also realized they were hungry so they went to get some food.

In the market they had escargot, pig liver, snail soup, and a lot more gross things. Sam and Kelly didn't want to eat any of these things so they went looking for some real food to eat and for some furniture to use.

...Sam, and Kelly

walked along and all of a sudden Bandit fell out of the sky.

"What are you doing here?" asked Sam. It had just so happened that Bandit was following them, and fell in the puddle too.

"I fell in the puddle thinking it was only going to make my clothes dirty, but no I fell into a magical world too, and this world is weird," he answered.

"Ow!"

"What was that?" Sam asked.

"I am down here," it said again,

"Oh," Sam said in an anxious voice.

"Yeah, oh is right," it said in a very angry voice.

"Who are you?" asked Sam.

"I am Princess Wanawana Teea Lay Di Vincana Dorriea Mallauy, and whaty are you doing herea?"

"I don't fully know how we got here, we just fell into a magic puddle and ended up here," Sam said.

"I want to know why when I first saw you, you looked like, a...moss," Sam said.

"Oh, I forgot to tell you, in this world you each have different powers, but everyone can shape shift, and fly," explained Wanawan. "How awesome!" everyone said.

Sam, Kelly, Bandit, and Wanawana started to go to Canalotor; Canalotor is a city for learning magic.

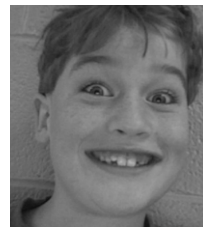

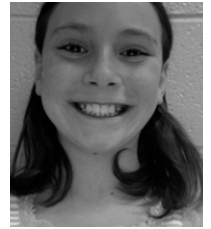

Sam, Kelly, and Bandit practiced their magic and Sam's magic powers were: invisibility, dragon fire, flying, and shape shifting. Bandit's new powers were flying, powers of water, shape shifting, and mind reading. Kelly's new powers were flying, shape shifting, powers of the earth, and mind control.

All of a sudden a tiger jumped out of nowhere, and attacked Wanawana. A boy who they had never seen before jumped out, and blasted the tiger away with an ice ball.

Wanawana looked up and said, "Oh you saved me, you are the best!" The boy was Rico Di Nillless; he was the same age as Wanawana; Wanawana was 12.

Rico could come with them! "Yeah, and this is awesome!" is all that they could say.
